

Lecture Series „Planetary Health“

Organized by Universität Hamburg. In collaboration with the EUGLOH Network.

The goal of the lecture series is to bring together researchers from the EUGLOH Network to share the insights from their diverse perspectives on planetary health. The lecture series is open to all students as well as external guests. The Lecture Series is part of the sustainability certificate programme of Universität Hamburg.

Participants:

UiT The Arctic University of Norway

Lecture Series „Planetary Health“ - Sessions

Date	Institution	Title of Talk
1.11.23	Universität Hamburg / University Novi Sad	Kickoff + Intro / Symbiosis of Planetary Health, One Health and Public Health
8.11.23	Université Paris-Saclay	EU Global Health policy (including the integration of challenges related to One Health / EcoHealth / Planetary Health)
15.11.23	Université Paris-Saclay	Sargassum algae in Martinique: the law and the complex integration of health and environmental objectives.
22.11.23	Universität Hamburg	Healthy living on a healthy Earth - WBGU's main report
29.11.23	University Novi Sad	Contaminants of emerging concern- from wastewater to drinking water
6.12.23	Université Paris-Saclay	One Health Economics (why and how Economics should take on the internal and interdisciplinary challenges of a promising public health paradigm)"
13.12.23	Uit The Arctic University of Norway	Interconnection within Nature' as per the Planetary Health Education Framework
20.12.23	Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München	Impacts of new climate extremes on sustainability pathways and planetary health - a regional perspective
10.01.23	Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München	Communicating Planetary Health - An Overview of Ongoing Research and Open Questions
17.01.23	University of Szeged/ Universität Hamburg	Ecocriticism (Humanities)/ Exam Preparation and Conclusion